

PART ONE: Reading. (7pts)

A/Comprehension: Read the text carefully than do these activities.

INTERPOL-Europol has announced that an operation carried between November 2015 and February 2016 uncovered more than 10,000 tonnes and one million litres of hazardous fake food and drink across 57 countries. The operation resulted in seizures ranging from nine tonnes of counterfeit sugar contaminated with fertilizer in Sudan, to more than 85 tonnes of olives which had been painted with copper sulphate solutions in Italy. Checks were carried out at shops, markets, airports, seaports and industrial estates and were part of coordinated initiative between police, national food regulatory bodies and the private sector to protect public health and fight organised crime.

In particular, the operation showed false labelling to be a common threat. In Australia, testing of 450kg of honey revealed, it had been blended or adulterated, and a consignment of peanuts had been repackaged and relabelled as pine nuts, posing a significant threat to allergy sufferers.

“Today’s rising food prices and the global nature of the food chain offer the opportunity for criminals to sell counterfeit and substandard food in a multibillion criminal industry which can pose serious potential health risks to unsuspecting customers. The complexity and scale of this fraud means cooperation needs to happen across borders with a multi-agency approach,” said Chris Vansteenkiste, Cluster Manager of the Intellectual Property Crime Team at Europol.
